

My husband drives a semi-truck and this service is invaluable to him. There are times when he is in one area of the country, headed to another, and needs a head's-up on what he will driving into. He doesn't have to try to find a local radio station with the hope they happen to be airing a weather or traffic report. I don't understand why truck drivers (and for that matter travelers in general) need to be denied this wonderful service provided by XM Satellite radio. Thank you for your time.
